WE NOMINATE

William Miller, 50-year old Princeton attorney and one of this country's most astute analysts of the functions of government, whose newly-published survey of New York City's long-standing business and financial tax seems to be attracting almost as much attention in New York political circles as Governor Nelson Rockefeller's second marriage. Since its issuance early this month by the New York Chamber of Commerce and the Citizens' Budget Commission, Miller's study of the Depression-born gross receipts tax, which has far outstripped the growth of New York's property and sales taxes, has been distributed to 1,000's of organizations and is being "boomed" as a major tax issue for the 1961 N. Y. State Legislature.

As has been the case since the late 1930's, when he first started preparing reports dedicated to the broad theme of making government better serve the public welfare, the New York-born Miller continues to "call his shots" in his most recent opus. Stressing that "taxation is politics in its finest sense," he argues that New York's abuse of the general business tax base by "repeated increases" in its rate has reached the point "where it must be recognized by everyone from the Governor (i.e. Rockefeller) down that the tax has gone beyond the limit of its capacity."

An alumnus of New York University, where he "majored" in history and politics and later completed his legal training, and staff director for the New Jersey Commission on State Tax Policy, Miller has long been identified with the cause of "sound government." Starting in 1942 with his assignment as a consultant to the original Commission on the Revision of the New Jersey Constitution, he played a key role in the evolution of the State's present Constitution and then helped develop and draft the Optional Municipal Charter Law (the "Faulkner Act") under which Princeton Borough and Township waged the epochal "consolidation battle" of the early 1950's.

Prior to opening his law offices here in 1951 Miller had combined lecturing in Princeton University's Department of Politics with his duties as director of research for Princeton Surveys (officially the State and Local Government Section within the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs). In the latter post he ranged far beyond the "ivory tower" and extended the Surveys' influence into the realm of public policy by serving as adviser and consultant to Governors, legislative committees, major cities and quasi-public bodies in nearly a dozen states, including Connecticut, New Hampshire, New York, New Mexico and Utah.

Miller, since December the Borough Board of Education's special legal representative in matters bearing upon the new school plant and the sale of the Nassau and Witherspoon Street School properties, continues to keep one foot in academe by commuting to N.Y.U. as Adjunct Professor of Law. An associate editor of the "New Jersey Law Journal," active in a variety of professional societies and constantly sought as an expert adviser by cities and such agencies as the N.Y. State Commission on Educational Finance, Miller was a founder and first president of the Princeton Jewish Center and has often been cited for his contributions to the YMCA sponsored Youth and Government Program.

For his marked capacities for interpreting for the benefit of laymen the workings and needs of every-day government; for his devotion to the "political values, sense of justice and social responsibility" inherent in the processes of democratic government, he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

DO YOU WANT TO TEACH?

Courses Offered. A Princeton women's club has found one solution to a pair of problems: the bored housewife who wants intellectual challenge and the hungry school system desperate for trained teachers.

The Princeton branch of the American Association of University Women has concluded, with spectacular success, a one-semester course in the basics of education, and has decided to offer it again next fall, possibly in harness with a second course if there is enough demand.

The course is given by Trenton State College, but class sessions meet in Kingston, which is much more convenient for the housewives than Trenton would be. According to present plans, classes will be held next fall at 7:30 each Tuesday evening in the Franklin Township Elementary School, Kingston, under Roland Black, who taught the course this spring.

"Principles and Practices of Elementary Education" is the title. It is a 15-week course, offering two points of credit, and it counts toward teacher certification. Tuition is $29.

Stimulating! "It just seemed too good to miss," said Mrs. George K. Horton, 160 Spruce Street. "I felt I needed something to stimulate my mind after housework, and I certainly found this class stimulating!"

A graduate of the University of Alberta, Mrs. Horton holds a B.A. degree but had no college course in education. She specialized in languages, German and French particularly and thinks she might like to teach in this field. On the other hand, she liked what she learned about elementary education in the A.A.U.W.'s course and now she thinks that perhaps the second and third grades would be fun to teach.

"I've never taught school, and I'm not sure when I will want to begin," Mrs. Horton said, "but I plan to take another course."

There are four Horton children, an 11-year-old girl at Witherspoon School who thinks it would be very exciting if her mother were her teacher; two children at Nassau Street and a pre-school child at home.

. . . and 49 Children. Of the 24 people who took the course — 23 women and one man: Theodore Hammond of Nassau Street School — about half were full-time housewives. Many, like Mrs. Horton, had only a bachelor's degree without courses in education. Others may have taken one course in education when they were in college ten years ago, and never gone any farther. Still others, like Mr. Hammond, were teachers taking courses toward certification. Women in the class had a total of 49 children.

In New Jersey, one can begin to teach in a public school on a provisional certificate after completing two courses in education so that a housewife with time looming ahead, can plan to begin a teaching career quite soon after she starts out on the road.

One member of the class, Mrs. J. A. Buckland, 38 Stanley Avenue, became a full-time teacher at Nassau Street School before she had even finished the course. Mrs. Buckland had two years of education courses, and had served as a substitute teacher before she began the A.A.U.W. class.

She signed up because "it was so easy to take. I didn't feel I could NOT take advantage of it!" Like some of the other women in the course, Mrs. Buckland had been discouraged by the amount of time it takes to travel from Princeton to Trenton State or to Rutgers, and so she had put off taking additional classes.

Family Co-operates. "Having this course in Kingston saves about two hours travel time per session," Mrs. Buckland figures.

"People call me up and ask me how it's working out, taking that evening class and doing homework and now teaching," Mrs. Buckland says. "I tell them they must have a husband who will cooperate, and a family that's willing to make it a family affair."

There are four Buckland children 17, 14, 11 and 8. Mr. Buckland is a commuter, which stiffens the family schedule somewhat, but "we all work together weekends on things that need to be done around the house." Incidentally, Mr. Buckland is also in education: he is a member of the Borough School Board.

"The class was just as challenging as I thought it would be. You know, you've been out of contact with things, not working at a job or studying, you wonder 'Can I do it?'" Mrs. Buckland laughs. "Well, it's wonderful to realize that you can do it — when you have to pass an exam and meet a standard, you add something extra to study that the usual adult course just can't give.

MOTHER DOES HER HOMEWORK: A paper and a book-report, but no final exam. That's the schedule for the A.A.U.W.-sponsored class for housewives who would like to become teachers. Mrs. J. A. Buckland, (center) did find, however, that there was plenty of homework to do. She received moral support from her daughter Daphne, 8, and her son, Kenny, 11. (Staff Photo)

Round-Up

Hot days cool nights, no rain throughout last week . . . Up to a high of 86° last Wednesday, down to a low of 39° Saturday night, into the 90's the first three days of this week . . . Precipitation was .00 . At least we can't have much less rain than that next week . . .

A Metuchen woman decided to take her pets for an airing Saturday night when she drove to Princeton to see the movie at the Garden . . . But Borough police questioned the sagacity of her decision when they saw her car in the Park Street parking lot at about 10:30 p.m.

Total count revealed 47 rats and two dogs in the station wagon. Some cats leashed to steering wheel, others to door handles.

Mercer County SPCA agents investigated, determined that the car was sufficiently well ventilated and the pets, all 49 of them seemingly well nourished . . . Absolved the woman headed back for Metuchen and home.

Sometime last Thursday night the Institute for Advanced Study was visited by a scholar in advanced burglary with a particular affection for typewriters . . . He took three, two of them electrics. Total value $1515 . . . Next day the non-electric was found under a tree on Institute property. The electric models are still missing.

Anybody lose a racing pig con? One showed up at the home of Mrs. Walter Coan, 22 Charlton Street, last Wednesday . . . SPCA unable to locate owner . . . Bird has a 1961 banding on its leg.

If you want to know how hot it is (and who doesn't?), don't look for a thermometer along Nassau Street, at least not between Bank Street and Vandeventer Avenue . . . At one time, a number of outdoor thermometers were handily available for examination by amateur weathermen at the entrance to drugstores, food stores and the like . . . A recent quick check of the area, however, indicated that this informative, unobtrusive bit of public relations seems to be a thing of the past.

Two accidents on Nassau Street, one day and one block apart . . . Last Wednesday, Louis Perry, 60, Oreland, Pa., was injured when the sign pole he had been painting in front of the Sunoco gas station, corner of Nassau and Murray Place, snapped off at the base . . . When the pole broke, the ladder Mr. Perry was on fell to the ground . . . He was treated at Princeton Hospital for cuts and for an injured left arm.

Next day, Edwin L. Kimble Jr., 19, 322 State Road, was hurt in an accident at corner of Nassau and Pine . . . Mr. Kimble was riding a motorcycle, he had to roll it to avoid hitting car in front of him which had stopped . . . He was taken to the hospital for five stitches in his scalp, otherwise okay.

Winners of high honors at Princeton High School for the final marking period: Linda Blattenberger, Alison McCord, Carole Parmet and Helen Schrader, seniors; Barbara Shurr, a junior; no sophomores; and Benay Abrams, Carl Burns, Susan Heineman, Linda James, Neil Kurshan and George Miksztal, six whiz-kid freshmen.

PHS '38 Plans 25th

The Princeton High School Class of 1938 will hold a dinner dance for its 25th reunion Saturday at 7:30 at the Princeton Inn.

The committee, headed by class president Robert Donald, has been successful in locating most of the class members, including former Princetonians now residents of many states and several foreign countries. Recognition and prizes will be given to the class member who has traveled the greatest distance to attend.

The committee includes: Mrs. Muriel Brdon Schuessler, Mrs. Audrey Winkelmann Mack, John Servis, Randall Hagaman, Bernard Glover and Philip Wesp. Reservations may be made by contacting one of the members of the committee.

And when you get a job all by yourself and keep it . . . ! Well, I think more women should try."

The class was a homogenous one. Most of the women came from the Princeton area. The housewives exchanged problems and braced each other during periods of discouragement. The teachers in the class provided an added dimension of experience, and the course was not so technical that the classroom comments of teachers were over the heads of housewives who had never had an education course.

A Teachers' Teacher. One of the best things about the course, according to its graduates, was the teacher, Mr. Black. Curriculum director of the Plainfield schools, he has been a teacher for 30 years, and he takes particular delight in discussing the teaching profession with men and women who are new to the field.

"The give and take, the two-way contact in the course was wonderful," Mrs. Buckland recalls. "Mr. Black tried consciously to make the course stimulating so that we women would be excited about teaching and I think he really succeeded."

A.A.U.W. board members decided to sponsor the course "because we felt it was needed." The A.A.U.W.'s Education Chairman, Mrs. David H. Wilder, spent six months making the necessary arrangements.

She discovered that Rutgers wasn't interested, and that Trenton State could not legally give a course in Princeton because both communities were in the same county (hence the Kingston site choice).

The board made a survey to find out how many women would sign up for such a course if it were offered, and the survey disclosed the fact that the A.A.U.W. president herself (Mrs. Buckland), was one of those eager to sign.

Anyone who is interested in next fall's course (men are invited to sign up too, if they wish) is invited to call Mrs. Wilder at WA 4-4274 for detailed information. The second course, to be given if there is enough demand, would be "The Elementary School Curriculum." Either course can be taken first.

FIREMEN TO MARCH

In Annual Parade. The annual firemen's parade and inspection will be held Friday evening starting at 7:30. The parade will leave Chambers Street and proceed east on Nassau Street to Olden, ending at the Engineering Quadrangle.

The parade will consist of all firemen and all pieces of apparatus and three bands. The Jersey Little Devils from Bordentown, The Shrine String Band from Trenton and The Hamilton Square Band. Ceremonies will be held on the steps of the Engineering Quadrangle.

The invocation will be given by the Rev. Frances C. Huntington of Trinity Episcopal Church. There will be an address by Henry S. Patterson, the Mayor of Princeton, and further remarks from the fire commissioner, Ellwood C. Godfrey; members of Borough Council and the Chief of the Fire Department, Samuel C. Davison. James Pace, chairman of the Hook and Ladder 175th Anniversary Committee, will be master of ceremonies.

BUYERS LINE UP

For Nassau Street School. Will the Nassau Street School be turned into a motel, a private nursing home, an apartment building? These are some of the possibilities.

Graham Rohrer, president of the Borough Board of Education, listed at Tuesday's meeting the uses envisioned by prospective buyers. "There's also substantial interest in apartments — some luxury apartments, others just plain apartments, some with stores on the ground floor," he said. An auto dealership, stores and offices have also been proposed.

Inquiries from nearly 100 prospective buyers have narrowed to "six to 10 people who seem to have active or specific interest in either the Nassau Street or Witherspoon Street School," Mr. Rohrer said. All projects are subject to approval by the Borough zoning and planning boards.

Less interest has been shown in the Witherspoon School, which is being offered as an apartment site. The reason is the density factor in relation to Borough housing ordinances.

According to Mr. Rohrer, "the amount of tax rateables which might be realized (on the Nassau property) vary greatly from what we had anticipated . . . Indications are that the rateables will be as high as $125,000; none less than the $20,000 we figured on." (One Princeton realtor estimates Nassau Street property at $2,000 a front foot.)

The board hopes to have the buildings sold before the October 15 bond referendum for the new elementary education center.

New School Studied. By July 32, the next regular meeting, the board expects to have completed the study on the location of the building in relation to the playing fields and also the estimated space requirements of the various departments. The structuring study will then be presented to the state in August.

Architect Ernest J. Kump and Dale Sprankle, manager of the Kump New York office, have met three times with the Educational Advisory Committee and twice with the Citizens Committee, in addition to many sessions with Superintendent of Schools Chester Stroup and the faculty of the elementary schools. Mr. Sprankle, an honors graduate of the Princeton University School of Architecture in 1952, has moved to Princeton — "a little bonus for us," said Mr. Rohrer.

Miscellany. Three studies are in various stages: 1) the educational section of the Joint Municipal Study meets again this Monday and the week after to prepare the outline for the "almost encyclopedic study" of the Borough and Township school systems. Hopefully, according to Mr. Rohrer, the study proper will begin in September; 2) school population insurance, including sports after school, parent participation and school board responsibility; 3) the possibility to the board sponsoring the school board will be studied in depth, with Dr. Stroup asked to supply the preliminary information.

The board noted that the present summer school, privately managed, is a "remedial project — run on a minimal basis, with no accelerated work available." The study is the suggestion of Professor Robert A. Lively and Dean Elmer G. Homrighausen, both board members.

Great Road By-Pass, BUT

When The Great Road bridge at the foot of Mountain Avenue is closed off for rebuilding this summer, there will be a by-pass structure available, erected by the Township. The by-pass, however, will not ease the detour problem of people who customarily use that part of The Great Road for getting to and from town.

At Township Committee meeting on Tuesday it was decided to finance the construction of a by-pass for emergency vehicles only (e.g. fire and police). It will be barricaded against use by any other traffic during the month when the new bridge is being built.

Start of work on the bridge and closing of the present structure was set for July 1. Because of delay while the by-pass question was being settled, construction starting date has been postponed for an estimated two weeks.

MAIL TO GO "ZIP"

Plan Will Speed Service. "Neither snow, nor rain, nor heat, nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds," reads the unofficial motto of the postman. But, while the whims of nature may not bog him down, the ever-increasing chore of sorting the daily snowfall of mail can and does.

In order to speed up the sorting task, the Post Office Department is starting the operation of a numerical code system. Dubbed the ZIP code method (for Zone Improvement Program), the new plan will go into effect Monday.

Here is how the ZIP code will work, according to Princeton's postmaster Charles F. Murray and Trenton Post Office representative Edward Picla. Your name happens to be Capt. John Smith, you live in Princeton, and you want to speed a letter of gratitude to Pocahontas Powhatan in Hopewell. Your address your letter thus:

Miss Pocahontas Powhatan,
6 Algonquin Circle,
Hopewell, N. J. 08525

You put your return address on the envelope as:

Capt. John Smith,
10 Tobacco Road,
Princeton, N. J. 08540

Hopewell's ZIP number is 08525, Princeton's is 08540. Similarly, there will be ZIP codes for every post office in the country.

Numbers More Legible. How will ZIP speed up mail deliveries? For one thing, the address on mail must often be read (or deciphered) as many as ten times by postal employees. Each reading slows up the process of mail distribution and adds to the chances of making an error.

With ZIPping in effect, a clerk need only scan the code to know for what national area, state and post office the piece is aimed. According to the post office, the new number system can cut as much as 24 hours from the time between mailing and delivery.

The code plan has been in operation in Western Germany for some time and has clearly proven its effectiveness. Its efficiency would seem to come in part from the fact that people probably write numbers more carefully and hence more legibly than they do letters.

In the present sorting procedure, postal clerks are frequently faced with the problem of reading careless handwriting in which, for example, "N.J.," "N.Y.," and "N.C." could be virtually indistinguishable one from another. With the ZIP system, the use of numbers should greatly alleviate such difficulties.

Electronic Sorting. Another way in which ZIP will speed up the mail is that large businesses, many of which use high speed electronic equipment for storing and producing their mailing lists, will now use the code numbers for automatically presorting their outgoing mail. This will substantially reduce the post office part of the work.

As a result, there will be quicker delivery of big mailings and, because of this presort at the source, much faster post office sorting of other mail particularly that carrying ZIP numbers.

In order that the new speed-up can be of maximum benefit as soon as possible, Postmaster Murray urges Princetonians to memorize and use the local ZIP number, 08540, with their return addresses starting July 1. He also asks that ZIP numbers be added to outgoing addresses as soon as they are known. Codes for communities in the Princeton area are listed in the box on this page.

$354,633 GOAL SET

By United Fund-Red Cross. Following four months of intensive study and review of member agency 1964 budgets, a total campaign goal of $354,633 has been set for this year's Princeton United Fund-Red Cross drive. Announcement of the target amount has been made by John M. Reeder, president of the community United Fund and by Fred M. Blaicher, chairman of the joint United Fund-Red Cross committee.

The amount set for this campaign represents a 13 percent increase over the 1962 goal of 312,797. The new goal was arrived at because of small increases in the needs of member agencies, the consolidation of the United Fund-Red Cross area of service, the addition of the Retarded Children's Association as a member, the Montgomery Township Community Chest's inclusion as a partner and allowance for member agency needs for emergency repairs and replacement of equipment.

The service area covers Princeton, Kingston, Rocky Hill, Montgomery Township, West Windsor, South Brunswick, Cranbury, East Windsor, Hightstown, Lawrence Township (to Bakers Basin), and outlying areas of Hopewell and Pennington. These communities will all be contributors to the Princeton United Fund-Red Cross drive and no individual member-agency campaigns will be conducted there.

The 32-member budget committee of the Princeton United Fund, under the chairmanship of Aubrey Huston, was cited by the fund's board of trustees for the long hours it spent in study and conferences with the member agencies to determine the allocations for 1964. Walter W. Wagner, executive at RCA's Space Center, has scheduled the first consolidated meeting of his divisional chairmen for this Thursday.

Following are the allocations approved for 1964 and for which the campaign will be held: Boy Scouts, $13,401; Cerebral Palsy, $2,000; Child Guidance Center, $22,168; American Health Association, $320; Family Service Agency, $32,107; Mental Health, $6,600; Girl Scouts, $6,000; Princeton Hospital, $50,000.

Also, Princeton Nursery School, $6,914; Princeton Playgrounds, $1,650; Retarded Children's Association, $3,484; United Service Organization, $2,000; Visiting Nurse Association, $17,689; YMCA, $37,864; YWCA, $35,224; American Red Cross, $45,350.

In addition, $1,600 has been allocated for the Children's Home, $6,914 for the Homemaker Service, $5,000 for the fund's deferred maintenance account, $13,031 for the headquarters and Council of Community Services and $4,950 for Montgomery Township member agencies.

The total campaign budget is set at $17,581 or 4.9 percent of the total goal. This budget represents, in terms of percentage of total to be raised, one of the lowest in the country.

Any Rain Up There?

Little cloud
That's passing by,
Can't you see
We're parched and dry?

"Parched and dry" is the only way to define conditions hereabouts, and as the saying goes, things will get worse before they get better.

Other than a shower or two that should come along in the next 48 hours to break 1963's first heatwave, the Man says there is no real rain in sight. Warmer than normal and more of the drought into July.

The Weather Bureau has a word of hope, however. Precipitation during the coming month is expected to be "above average" for New Jersey and much of the rest of the east.

News Of The THEATRES

NO SUMMER CURTAIN

Wait for '64. It will be at least one more summer before the lights go on again in Princeton theatres. This summer for the first time in 16 years, there will be no theatre in Princeton, however, next summer may see the gala festival planed by Milton Lyon of McCarter Theatre in celebrate New Jersey's Tercentenary.

Mr. Lyon has suggested to the state a multi-faceted festival, with outdoor theatre, concert and dance presentations, all built around the Tercentenary theme. At the moment, however the plan is in the wings, and Princeton's theatrical scene is dark.

Last summer, a group of young actors presented a season in the one-time garage now occupied by Viking Furniture The group was only mildly successful, artistically and financially, and so far as anyone knows, its members have disbanded with no thought of a '63 season.

In past years, various companies have used the gymnasium at Princeton Country Day School and Murray Theatre on campus, but the general feeling is, although no spokesman is willing to say so for publication, that the young actors were so irresponsible financially and so heedless of property that they would not be welcome again at either stand.

1951, 1960 - Vintage Years. The last good summer season was one presented by a revived University Players in 1960, using an Actors Equity company (The strain of meeting Equity payrolls is said to have been the reason behind the Players' one-summer-only appearance)

In that season, Princeton theatre-goers had a chance to see Arthur Miller's adaptation of Ibsen's "Enemy of the People," a spirited production of "Major Barbara" and three short plays by Ionesco, among others.

But 1954 is the summer season Princeton remembers In that year, the opener was Tennessee Williams' "Camino Real" which was, in the words of TOWN TOPICS' reviewer, "A tremendous challenge met more than handsomely." Hugh Hardy, now of McCarter, was the set designer.

Later on in the long, hot summer, Howard Lindsay's "She Loves Me Not" made Murray Theatre's tiny stage "the funniest place in America", and for a final curtain, there was Mario Silelli's adaptation of "Alice in Wonderland," which was "a real gem."

Adding the balance sheet for the summer of '54, TOWN TOPICS reviewer wrote that "the feeling is definitely established among local theatre-goers, both regular and occasional, that the youthful group is welcome any summer for as long a season as it can manage."

But 1954 did not repeat in 1955. That year, two different groups sustained Princeton audiences: an organization called Buskins and Socks composed of young students of the theatre under the guiddance of Sandra Jefferson, and Community Players.

No Straw Hat. Commercial theatre in Princeton stopped with the strawhat summer of 1954 at McCarter, a season that had to compete with heat, a theatre without air-conditioning, and the pleasures of sitting at home to watch red hot races in both major leagues as the Yankees lost the pennant for the first time in seven years.

The theatre lopped off he final week of its season, having exhibited Mae West in "Come on Up, Ring Twice," Luise Rainer in "Biography," Constance Bennett in "I Found April" and Charlton Heston, minus his Ben Hur chariot, in "The Traitor." Hit of the summer was "An Evening with Beatrice Lillie."

The list itself gives some hint of the summer's failure, and McCarter never repeated. The past seems to show that, in Princeton summer theatre, success lies in good productions of off-heat plays that audiences have trouble catching elsewhere, perfomed by actors who are not necessarily star calibre, but are competent enough as craftsmen to carry Ionesco, Beckett, Shakespeare without dropping a line.

PARATROOPER: John Wayne appears as the commander of a paratroop battalion which goes in on the first wave on D-Day in the battle film, "The Longest Day," now at the Garden.

GARDEN

The Longest Day (now playing) is a searing, three-hour battle picture, directed by Darryl F Zanuck and written for the screen by Cornelius Ryan, author of the best seller on which it is based The D Day fighting on the beaches of Normandie is shown in panoramic spectacles and in many brief encounters between individuals and small groups.

The film ranges over the whole battle area, from headquarters in England across to Nazi supreme command posts, to the battle frenzy and to the cellars of the French resistance workers The actors speak in English French and German, adding to the authenticity of the pictures as the scenes shift

Among the players are John Wayne, injured commander of a first-wave paratroop battalion; Richard Burton as an RAF pilot; Red Buttons, a paratrooper who hangs suspended from church steeple while his comrades are slaughtered around him; Henry Fonda as Brig Gen. Theodore Roosevelt, Eddie Albert as a fighting colonel in the murderous Omaha Beach action Robert Mitchum, who leads the final breakthrough. Peter Lawford as a British commander; Paul Anka, Richard Beymer, Fabian, Sal Mineo, Tommy Sands and Robert Wagner, all as soldiers who did extraordinary things because they had to be done. Comment: awesome destruction, carnage and heroism highlighted by superbly effective photography.

THE OLD FOLKS—AND THE HELLIONS: Frank Sinatra, Tony Bill, Molly Picon and Lee J. Cobb star in the comedy "Come Blow Your Horn," now at the Playhouse and the Prince.

PLAYHOUSE and PRINCE

Come Blow Your Horn (now playing) is a light, fast-paced and sophisticated comedy of the New York scene. It was adapted from the successful Broadway play.

Frank Sinatra stars as the playboy son of a staid, Jewish manufacturer of artificial fruit. His high old times get complicated when his kid brother leaves home, planning to live it up, too.

Lee J. Cobb and Molly Picon are delightful as the parents; Barbara Rush appears as a sexy, vacant-minded neighbor. Newcomer Tony Bill is perfect as the younger brother.

One of the funniest scenes stars Miss Picon, alone in her son's plush apartment, trying to answer phones and take messages at top speed. Comment: spry and very funny.

COMMUNITY BAND READY

The program for the first concert will include the "Academic Festival Overture" by Johannes Brahms; "Prelude and Fugue" by the contemporary American composer, Houton Bright; "Egmont Overture" by Beethoven; "Hootenanny Suite" by Elie Siegmeister, and selections from the Broadway show, "Milk and Honey."

Performances at the Playhouse are given at 8:30 with matinees Wednesday and Saturday at 2. Jean Kerr's first play, "Jenny Kissed Me," will open Monday, July 8.

IT'S NEW To Us

TAKE 12 LIMES . . .

Punch Drunk, Everybody? We drank five cups of punch at a party the other day, smugly congratulating ourselves on having what it takes to down so much and still drive a straight line home. We discovered the next day that we'd been drinking grapfruit punch all afternoon and that the rum punch was at the other end of the table.

Oh, well . . .

The only moral of this story is that it serves to lead into a discussion of Wine & Game's summer itinerary, which consists of a tour of all the recipe books in search of a good punch for summer galas.

"Hundreds" is the term used at W & G to define the number of punch recipes available. You may choose from dozens of whiskey punches, some made like great big whiskey sours, others with a base of, let's say, strong tea.

There are champagne punches, done with brandy or sauternes and perhaps enhanced, this time of the year, with giant strawberries marinated ahead of time in cherry brandy. And even though it's June-going-into-July, May wine is still light as a Viennese waltz, with strawberries dancing on the surface.

Rum punches are numerous, with light or dark rum as a base, and there are red wine or white wine punches, too, perhaps the white wine drinks more appropriate for warm summer picnics.

Like to drink but not to mix? Wine & Game suggests Island Inn's frozen Daiquiri, the instant kind that tells you "just add rum." A 6-ounce can for 33 cents makes 12 drinks.

For sours and Collinses, Wine & Game has on the counter a bottle of Mi-lem, with the foam built right in, as it says on the label. You pour it in whenever you would use lemon, in about a one-one proportion ("one jigger — more or less — to one jigger — more of less — of liquor," say the directions.)

You can even use Mi-lem in things like puddings, apparently, although what happens to the carbonation makes an interesting chemical question. Cola, iced tea and 7-Up also provide a base of operations for this bartender's helper.

Like a Gimlet on a hot afternoon? Rose's Lime Juice is here. Like a light aperitif? Dubonnet on the rocks. Like the spiciness of vermouth? Try Stock on the rocks.

For your next picnic, with the eggs in aspic and the cold game hen, try a bottle of rose, starting at $1.49 for the Rose d'Anjou and climbing from there.

If it's a more informal picnic, you'll want one of the 40 imported beers at Wine & Game, from such unlikely spots as Italy, Japan and France, and such likely spots as Germany, Holland, Denmark, Norway and Canada.

Now, back to that party . . . Wine & Game will not only produce a recipe for you, they will also rent you a punch bowl and cups, or bar glasses if it's that kind of party, and as a final gesture of hospitality and cameraderie, will sell you the liquor.

DON'T THROW IT IN!

The Towel, We Mean. How could you throw it in if it's one of Farkouh's beach towels? Like the one imprinted with an oversize book that says "How to Relax" or the one with something that looks — we swear it — like a polar bear, or the one with a canoeist on the shore of some mysterious northern lake?

Mr. Farkouh says he has ten different prints on his towel rack and we take his word. He also has absolutely plain towels in colors like white, sand (that's for us!), green, blue, pink and maize. These are tremendous beach towels of course, and would be splendid in a bathroom the year round, once you shake the sand out of that sand-colored one.

In addition, there are Roman stripes (narrow) in golds, blues, pinks and the like. Made by Callaway, all of them, priced at $2.98 and $3.98.

Out on the terrace, we find the table set for strawberry shortcake with a good old-fashioned red-checked gingham table cloth, a traditional posy in each red-on-white square. One even has black fringe imprinted as a border.

For sophisticates who dribble kirsch on strawberries instead of eating strawberry shortcake, there are suave flannel-back vinyl cloths by Leacock with floral or fruit bowl prints, oval or oblong.

Fire Away!

In the back room of The Pink House on Route 69, behind the showrooms where the ceramics are displayed, there is, of all things, a kiln.

It seems odd, somehow, even though this is a shop where pottery is sold. After all, you don't find an assembly line in an automobile show-room, or a cabinet-maker in a furniture shop. And yet here, in The Pink House is a kiln.

Well, it does have a purpose, this electrically operated oven. It's used to fire decals of wild ducks on blank lamp bases or ash-trays. More important, however, it is a fiery furnace for piggy-banks.

If you have a dear godchild, you stop at The Pink House and select a piggy-bank decorated with pink rosebuds. Then you leave the piggy-bank so that The Pink House can put the child's name on the side of the bank in gold letters, annealed of course, in the kiln in the back room.

The outside of the piggy-bank is something The Pink House is happy to cope with. What goes inside is your problem.

It's New To Us

with graceful garland borders in various pastel shades.

The summer bedroom at the Farkouhs' has been fitted out with light-weight spreads of plisse or striped cotton, one with girlish violet bouquets on white, another with boyish Joseph's-coat stripes on natural. Blanket covers are crinkle crepe or nylon in pastels. We saw one in a cool shade of pink with a narrow white nylon ruffle and a small white applique in the center. Could be a bedspread, too. The blankets themselves, for a midsummer night's breeze, start at $2.98 in summer weight.

FOR THE GARDEN

Or A Christmas Tree. Garden pieces in off-white bisque porcelain are featured these warm afternoons at The Pink House, a factory outlet for the Bay Ridge Pottery (and also, parenthetically, an outlet for Toni Hastings' fine Shetlands. More of this later.)

The Pink House is about a mile south of the Pennington Quality Market on Route 69, easy to identify because it is — a pink house. You'll see on the lawn two deep bisque planters shaped like mixing bowls and holding, at the moment, two small evergreens. There's a conventional birdbath with ceramic butterflies on the pedestal and a bright blue glaze in the shallow bowl, and a modern Japanese birdbath, low and stone-like, and also glazed inside with blue.

That Christmas tree, strayed somehow from the winter solstice to the summer solstice, is a nine-inch white porcelain tree with colored "lights" pinpointing its branches. Shop early and avoid the rush.

Lamps are a particular specialty of The Pink House. Many are as low as $5 for lamp and shade, the lamp bases fashioned like creamy white apothecary jars, some with game birds on the side, some with cheerful old-fashioned fire-engines. Other lamps are about $5 to $7.50 without the shade, and among these you'll find the traditional pineapple lamp of hospitality, and such fancies as a rooster-almost full size — poised as the lamp base.

Ceramic accessories for this shop have been designed with almost every taste in mind. For modern homes, there are square ash-trays in a deep olive-grey, with pitchers, bowls and vases to match. For traditional rooms there are mugs decorated with old cars or dashing horses. The modern garden would be delightful with the "stone" Japanese lantern about 22 inches high, and the old-fashioned garden would be charming with the lavabo as a wall decoration.

The Toni Hastings collection of fine Shetlands is housed in The Pink House, too. These yarns are imported direct from Scotland and the Shetland Isles, and that they can be offered at 65 cents an ounce is because the middlemen have been dropped off the dock. Colors are rich or soft depending on your choice, and the yarns are the splendid texture of the true Shetland.

Sweaters, in cashmere or lambswool are also available. We made special friends with a Shetland sheepskin, minus the sheep of course, and almost brought him home for bare feet on a cold winter morning. The wool is closely textured and very, very soft.

Antiques have always been at Toni Hastings, along with the Shetland, and she is now showing a fine old French fruit set consisting of forks and knives with vermeil blades and tines, and silver handles, 12 of each. Wine coasters from the early 19th century would make a fine wedding present for a bride who wants "something old."

HOW MUCH WATER? Hydrants in potential or actual trouble spots around town were filled with pressure gauges this week so that water company engineers could measure the ebb and flow of water. Pressures vary so widely, due to clogged or small drains, that a house on one side of the street can be dry indeed, and its neighbor across the way abundantly served with water. (Staff Photo)

Topics Of The Town

Community Chest will merge their fund raising activities starting with this year's campaign. The merger follows a large number of discussions on the subject between leaders of the two organizations.

The entire area of Montgomery Township will be included in the merger, and annual budgets for fund allocations will be submitted by the Montgomery Township Community Chest for review by the Princeton United Fund budget committee and approval by the board of trustees. Because of the inclusion of the new township and as a more accurate discription of the fund's past and present coverage, the activity will be called the Princeton Area Community Fund from now on.

All residents and businesses in Montgomery Township will be solicited for contributions to the fund drive this fall. Allocations approved for 1964 for the new member township total $4,950 and include the following: Community Recreation Commission, $1,000; Ambulance and Rescue Squads of Hopewell, Millstone and Hillsborough, $1,050; Boy Scouts, $1,190; Girl Scouts, $600; Visiting Nurse, $700; Family Service, $500.

Montgomery Township will have representation on the Princeton fund board and all committees. Similarly, the Princeton organization will have representatives on the Montgomery Township Community Chest board and budget committee.

Montgomery leaders involved in the merger are: Bartlett Bailey, president of the group; Mrs. John Dixon Jr., vice president, Mrs. Paul J. Messmeo, treasurer; Mrs. Ben Trauf, secretary; the chest board of directors and the township committee of Mayor Richard Bell, Edward James and Chalmer Minor. Princeton fund officials working on the merger include: John M. Reeder, president; Fred M. Blaicher, past president; and William K. Coley executive director.

The Princeton Area United Fund board of trustees voted unanimously to include the Montgomery Township Community Chest in the campaign. In like manner, the Montgomery Township organization's board of directors and the township committee voted unanimously for the merger with Princeton.

IT'S "SEMI-DRY"

But No Restrictions Planned. "You might say it's 'semi-dry,'" said Fred Klink of the Princeton Water Company.

Lawns are the color of hay, water comes brownly from the tap and there is more dust in the air than moisture, but the situation is not so bad as it was in May 1962, when water stopped flowing altogether in many parts of town. The company does not plan at this time to restrict the use of water.

Monday night and Tuesday of this week, the water company switchboard was busy with calls asking, "Why the brown water?" By Tuesday afternoon according to Mr. Klink, the pressure had begun to rise again and water in the tanks had reached a safe level. The water was brown, in some areas, because the flow was simply scouring out the mains, Mr. Klink said.

Swimming pools are not the villains, as many Princeton residents seem to believe. Pool owners were asked to fill their pools about a month ago so that there would be no sudden heavy drain when hot weather came. The culprit is the lawn sprinkler, spraying thousands of gallons with happy abandon, while the water pressure sinks lower and lower. Wading pools cause problems, too, because unlike swimming pools they are filled and refilled every day during hot weather.

If clouds gather, even for half an hour in the middle of the day, water pressure will rise, as householders scan the sky for rain and turn the sprinkler off. The lowest pressure point comes about 8 p.m. when dishwashers and showers are running full.

PRINCETON BANK WINS

Is Low Bidder on Bonds. Princeton Bank and Trust was awarded the Township's $512,000 bond issue at the school board's meeting Thursday night, winning out over 10 other financial institnitons with its low bid of 2.9 percent.

The money will be used by the Township for construction of additions to Riverside and Littlebrook Schools. Commenting on the bid, the board's fi-

"Tin Goose" Flies Again

The TWA "Tin Goose," famed Ford Tri-motor plane retired 25 years ago, circled Princeton at 1:30 p.m. Saturday on the last lap of her nostalgic flight from Los Angeles. Stephen Kidd, assistant director of the office of Research Administration at Princeton, who was aboard, reports, "It was so noisy we passed notes and we were deaf when we landed."

The Tin Goose (air speed just under 100 mph) covered 2,608 miles in 25 hours and 40 minutes in the air between L.A. and Newark to commemorate the first transcontinental passenger flight. Capacity over the mountains was nine passengers, no baggage. A forced landing was made at dawn in Parker, Ariz., just 1 hour and 45 minutes out of Los Angeles because the left wing motor was spewing oil.

"It was a memorable experience," Mr. Kidd said. "I've always admired the old buskel" nance chairman, George Geier, said he was delighted with the low rate, and that he planned to invest the money until it was needed (some time in October at a rate higher than the 2.9, thereby strengthening the board's financial position.

Twenty-four parents of sixth grade children signed a letter to the Board questioning the wisdom of the grouping system used in the sixth grade. The letter was read aloud, discussed with several signers who were present, then turned over to the Instruction Committee for study.

The gist of the letter was that current grouping practices tend to "discourage and demoralize the majority" of students in the sixth grade. There are four sections, "one" and "two" for top-ranking students, "three" and "four" for those lower on the academic scale.

The authors of the letter pointed out that in many other school systems, boys and girls in "three" and "four" might be in top groups, and that they are discouraged and stigmatized in Princeton Township because they are not, as the letter phrased it, "the cream of the cream."

Mrs. Mina Kempton, one of the signers, suggested that boys and girls could learn from each other if there were a variety of abilities in each class.

"We must, and immediately, work hard on the middle and lower groups," said Mrs Edward Meservey, who had signed the letter. "I am concerned about a future society in which everybody will have to have an education beyond what we all had, and a few people will have to be very specially educated. These middle and lower groups will need much more training than they are getting now."

The parents also said that science and arithmetic had been so stressed that a child without these skills, but with skills in other areas, such as creative writing, was at a disadvantage.

"We're anxious to re-evaluate at every step," said A. Robert Trudel, acting board chairman.

"We may be making more distinctions than we need to make among children with different abilities," commented board member Donald Riddle.

In other business, the Board invited Dr. George J. Smith, supervising principal of the public school in Kent, Conn., to succeed William D. Perkins as principal of Community Park School. The Board also accepted, with regret, the resignation from the board of Willis A. Bussard, who is moving to Armonk, N.Y.

60-YEAR MILESTONE

For Mr. and Mrs. Bill. It was 60 years ago this Sunday, on a muggy June 30, 1903, in Plainfield that Alfred Hoyt Bill and Florence Reid were married.

This Sunday, the Bills will be guests of honor at a party to be held in the garden of their home at 103 Mercer Street. Among the guests will be their two children, Edward C. Bill and Mrs. Gregory Tschebotarioff and their one grandchild, Sonia Bill, a sophomore at Vassar.

Mr. Bill had received his diploma from Yale only a week before his wedding, and he certainly never thought he would one day become a Princeton man. But after residence in Faribault, Minn. (where he and Miss Reid had met and in Great Barrington, Mass., he began to feel the need of library facilities for his historical research.

Bishop Paul Matthews of Princeton, whom the Bills had known in Minnesota said "Why not move to Princeton?" and although Mr. Bill as a staunch Yale alumnus was momentarily shaken by the idea, he agreed to move in temporarily, just to see.

"We moved here for a two-

ONE AND ONE AND ONE MAKE THREE: Borough PTA members have been out in force this week, counting the town's smallest noses to see how many children will need schoolrooms in the next few decades. Mrs. J. K. Randall, 21 Jefferson Road (left) gives her vital statistics to Mrs. William Behrend, of those statistics, Beth, age eight months, on her lap. Ellen Randall, 6, (first grade at Nassau Street) and brother Tom, 3½ (afternoon kindergarten, Nassau Street) watch to see that no mistakes are made.

SCIENTIST'S ARM BROKEN

In Frick Lab Explosion. Mantrata Sastri, 38, 120 Prospect Avenue suffered multiple fractures of his left arm and hand and multiple abrasions last week when an explosion rocked the room in Frick Laboratory where he was conducting an experiment on shock waves. He was taken to Princeton Hospital and admitted.

According to the police, Mr. Sastri a research associate, was working with a pressure pot containing two gases. Suddenly, with violent force, the pot exploded, hurtling the lid to the ceiling where is shattered a water pipe. On the way down, the lid struck and fractured Prof. Sastri's arm. Police said that the blast also knocked out all of the room's windows.

Not Seriously Injured. As she was leaning against a screen window Saturday afternoon, Teresa Anne Cousar, age 3, fell when it gave way from the third floor of the Seminary Apartment occupied by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Cousar, 100 Stockton Street.

Teresa landed on the side of her face on the concrete sidewalk below, but, despite the height, she was not critically injured. She was admitted to the Princeton Hospital for a fractured pelvis and fractured jaw. Never placed on the critical list, she was reported to be in satisfactory condition.

Police said her mother was busy in the kitchen and her father was helping a neighbor move at the time of the mishap. Patrolmen Thomas Proccaccino and Arthur Jackson took the child to the hospital.

there, and it is hoped that many of them will contribute their ideas and talents to the program.

On Friday evenings at the high school, there will be baseball games for boys and softball games for the girls on the high school fields from 6:30 to 8:30. Informal dancing will follow from 8:30 to 10:30 with a loud speaker and record player provided, but the dancers will have to provide their own records.

The program was designed to provide informal summer recreational activities for high school age youth. A special committee consisting of Mrs. D. Barlon Stevens, President of the Borough Elementary School PTA, the chairman of the committee, Walter Sorg, director of the YMCA, and Ellis J. Willard, chairman of the playground committee, was organized through the Council of Community Services to review the town's resources and recommend a program.

They proposed a program of sports, dancing, and informal entertainment for three evenings a week and recommended that this be under the direction of a professional leader assisted by volunteers. The need for this program and its estimated cost were presented to the Board of Trustees of the Princeton United Community Fund at its May meeting by the Council of Community Services.

The trustees voted to appropriate $400, and this, plus a contribution from the Township Recreation Commission and another from a private donor, have made the program possible. Those who would like to help with this program should call Mrs. Howard Fox at WA 1-6387.

JOSEPH ABELSON WINS

In Father's Day Contest. Seven-year-old Joseph Abelson of 137 Loomis Court won $247.80 worth of clothing for his father in Bamberger's Father's Day contest, "My Dad's the Greatest."

Joseph's entry, which was judged the best for its sincerity and naturalness, said, "My Dad's the greatest because the governor asked him to work for the Army. He has a Jeepster made in 1948. He takes me fishing and I caught two Pirch and one sunny."

Mr. Abelson has won a wardrobe which includes a suit, sport coat, cabana set, shirts, hat, tie, pajamas, jewelry, underwear, shoes and slacks. The grand prize of the 1963 Tempest LeMans Convertible was 6-year old Jack Campbell of Riverton for his father, Robert J. Campbell.

Entertainment Lacking.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Apparently the local custom of having some summertime theatrical activity is going to lapse this season — perhaps for lack of a showplace, but certainly not for talent. For us confined to town except for normal short vacation weeks, we'll miss the performances.

Is it too late for someone to organize something entertaining for July and August?

Maybe it need not be drama or at least formal theatre. It could be music (we do have three or four Community Band Concerts scheduled) either live or recorded, but presented at dusk — the grassy lawn in front of the post office on Palmer Square would make a nice setting.

Maybe it could be once-a-week amateur nights with local dancers, singers, instrumentalists, comedians, ventriloquists and novelty acts in all sizes from solos to groups. Auditions could be dispensed with and donations of silver in place of an admission charge would defray expenses.

We'd need a leader or coordinator with a committee of aides, a small platform, maybe a spotlight and perhaps a public address system. Some of these might be loaned by someone.

The resulting programs from such a plan might be near to the impromptu but there would be the need for a master of ceremonies (amateur, of course).

For myself it must be admitted that I lack any talent as described above, but I could provide some recorded music and a PA system of a limited type.

But I am willing to act as a kind of temporary chairman or clearing house for any further ideas along these lines. Write a letter to the editor of this newspaper or write or telephone me (WA 1-7676 days, WA 1-2646 nights). Maybe we can get some entertainment organized and that tall pine in the center of Palmer Square won't be so lonesome.

DON EVANS

61-C Palmer Square

Editor's Note: Summer theatre won't be a part of the Princeton scene in 1963 (see News of the Theatres, page 5), but possibly response to Mr. Evans' community-minded suggestion may fill the bill in temporary fashion.

Any Canisters Uncollected?

To the Editor of Town Topics:

On behalf of the Central New Jersey Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, I would like to express appreciation to the merchants of Princeton for their cooperation in allowing us to place canisters in their establishments during the MS Hope Chest Campaign, and their generosity in making their own contributions.

We have tried to return their courtesy by collecting all the canisters within the time limit requested. However, there is a possibility that two or three may have been overlooked. Should this be the case, Mrs. Edward Kopp of 206 Riversile Drive would be glad to collect them. She can be reached at WA 4-0937.

MARINERS TAKE TRIP

Fill 13 Canoes. Princeton Senior Girl Scout Mariner Troop has returned from a four-day trip down the Delaware River. A flotilla of 13 canoes, loaded with tents, girls and food, went the distance from Port Jarvis to Delaware Water Gap.

The first night's camp was on a mid-stream island, the second night at Dingman's Ferry, where the girls walked to town to replenish food supplies. The final camp was on Tock's Island, where they were met by Mrs. William H. Beaney, her daughters, Barbara and Carol, and by former Mariner Carol Baker.

Parents and leaders met the Mariners at Kittatinny Beach, where canoes and tents were loaded into cars and station wagons for the trip home.

Participants were Anne Chenicek, Linda Blattenberger, Jane Johnston, Patricia Pohl, Carol Beth Evans, Cynthia Cronk, Susan Starbuck, Patricia Gaynor, Ann Austin, Eleanor Vivian, Margaret Morse, Gail Blattenberger, Ellyn Frank, Ellen Spinner, Allison Hosford, Dorothy Jukes, Kitty McCusker, Helen Wolff and Elizabeth Margosches.

Also, Susan Klein, Susan Rose, Margaret Hosford, Laurel Bain, Cheryl Warfield, Elizabeth Fisher, Jean LeForge, Ann Vivian and Margaret Sussman. Person To Person

Cory S. Kommler

We read an interesting article on some of the political customs practiced in ancient times in Athens. In those days the politicians apparently had a devious way of getting rid of opponents, short of murder. They would ask for a vote before the Athenian assembly on an Ostracism. After the assembly had okayed the Ostracism by a show of hands, a date would be set for public voting, when the free citizens would vote by tribes, each depositing their ballots in boxes in the market place. Each voter marked the name of the man he wished to see exiled on a piece of pottery (called an ostrakon), and the man who received the most votes out of a required minimum had to leave Athens within ten days and stay away ten years. Over 1500 Ostraka have been discovered in the Athenian Acropolis and market place, many bearing the name of Athenians known from literary sources to have been ostracized. Over 500 bearing the name of Themistocles, ostracized in 471 B.C., have been found. In business we can banish headaches and losses for you when you buy a car; we will prevent you from getting stuck with a poorly prepared or poorly conditioned car, and right now we have really big values! SUPREME COURT RULING DEFENDED: Ray Burd (left) and Walter Menand both support the recent ruling of the Supreme Court which declared compulsory Bible reading in public schools to be unconstitutional.

Question of the Week

Question: In support of the First Amendment, the Supreme Court has ruled that compulsory Bible reading in public schools is unconstitutional. What is your reaction?

Where asked: Around town.

Miss Patricia Opdycke Kingston, PHS student and clerk: I don't see anything unconstitutional about saying a prayer. I think the ruling is ridiculous.

Frank Pastore, Hightstown, shipping and receiving, McLean Engineering: I don't believe in it. I don't think it should change. We had it that way all through school and it didn't bother me and it didn't seem to bother any of the other kids. I think anybody who starts this sort of thing is crazy.

Walter Menand, 140 Hodge Road, mover for Bohren's: I'm for it. I think it is only fair because a lot of people don't believe in the Bible or in God. And if this is compulsory, then it isn't fair to these people who don't believe.

Ray Burd, 53 Lafayette Street, Hopewell, carpet installer: I think it is okay. I'm no Bible reader myself. In my opinion, let them get it at home and at church where they should, rather than in the schoolroom.

Wilbur S. Green, Holmeson, N.J., truck driver: I go along with the decision. I think Bible reading should be encouraged in the home. That's where children should be taught the Bible, by parents who have an interest and a concern and not have it thrown at them by an outside teacher.

Stanley Huff, 407-A Devereux Avenue, graduate student, economics: I go along with the court's decision. I feel religion is a private matter and that forcing people against their will to go through with religious ceremonies that have no meaning for them should be prevented. The place to build religion is in the home and not in a state institution.

Charles M. Russo, Palmer Lane, Trenton, Princeton University Police: I would say it is the worst decision that any body of men claiming to be intelligent could make. I am shocked that the Supreme Court should make such a discriminatory ruling. When you take religion away from the people, you're a demagogue; you believe in nothing. You have to be able to believe in something because if you don't, you don't have any morals. The laws of the land are supposed to represent the majority of the people but the Supreme Court is catering to the minority. When they start telling you and me what we can and can't say in our own religion, then something is wrong somewhere. I think it is the worst decision I ever heard of. I think all parents should write letters of protest to their Congressmen. And if Congressmen agree with the Supreme Court then they shouldn't be in office. The whole thing stinks.

Mrs. George Morgan, 32 Penn Lyle Road, Princeton Junction, housewife: I don't like it. I think the majority of the people want these Bible readings and prayers and it is a case of the majority having to submit to the minority. At least a lot of people I have talked to have felt indignant about it and I feel the same way.

Edward Welsh, Freehold, retired executive: In my opinion, I would uphold the Supreme Court on that. I think the individual should have the privilege of determining whether he should have to hear these prayers or not. Certainly, I wouldn't want to do away with religion in this country; it is just a matter of taking it out of the public schools. I think it took a lot of courage on the Court's part to make the decision.

Mrs. Richard Lamb, Province Line Road, housewife: I don't like to see it made into a ruling that will affect all the schools because I think it should be left to particular schols that are having a debate about it. I believe in freedom of religion as I do in all other freedoms in this country.

Mrs. Harry H. Hall, Jr., 159 Terhune Road, housewife: I think the decision is a fair one. I think it would have been a good thing if the so-called Christians in Baltimore, where the whole issue started, could have practiced their Christianity and seen fit to refrain from ridicule and persecution of someone who believed differently from themselves.

Robert B. Legrum, Grovers Mill, retired tool maker: There are two things I would like to get rid of in this country: one, the Supreme Court and, two, the American Medical Association. What has the Supreme Court ever done that was worthwhile? Have they ever handed down a decision that actually helped the American people? I'm not a religious man but I can't see taking this away from us. I think we ought to have it in the schools. Why should we become heathens? I think this is one of the worst things that has ever happened to this country. If there are certain pupils or parents of pupils this offends, they can make rules and exceptions to accommodate them. They can take a recess for ten minutes while these prayers are being said.

Mrs. J. Oliver Gluyas, 73 Magnolia Lane, housewife: I'm sorry to see it. Regardless of your religion, I don't see how it could possibly harm anyone to hear a prayer. I wish it hadn't happened. I feel very strongly about it and I hope they can do something about it.

H.B. Brown, Skillman, medical research: I'm against it because I think they should have it in the schools. I've been brought up that way. I'm a Quaker.

Mrs. Edgar M. Smith, 1 Columbia Avenue, Hopewell, teacher: I think they've made a great mistake. I think the Bible has a place in school, as fas as children are concerned, as literature. I think they should hear it and have it read to them in school each day. Not in any attempt to proselytize but as an example of great literature.

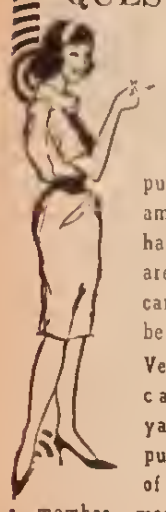
YOUR CARPET QUESTIONS



How is the square yard area computed? For example if a room has a 30 sq. yd area, how much carpeting must be purchased?

Very seldom can carpet square yardage be computed by the size of the room. Remember, most carpet is made in 12 and 15 ft. widths, and therefore, if a room is, let's say, 11 x 24 the customer would have to pay for a 12 x 24. So a room 11 x 24 would take 32 sq. yds. Only in custom carpet do you pay for the exact size as it can be woven or tufted to the room measurements.

Young Brooks, who will be president of the Princeton High School Student Council next year, won half of his scholarship from the Experiment in International Living on the recommendation of Dr. Chester Stroup, Borough school superintendent. The other half has been supplied by the Princeton chapter of Rotary International.

Within the group of 15 students are boys and girls from all over the country, ranging in age from 15 to 19. With their chaperones, they will leave for Europe this Saturday, returning on August 18.

"I'm looking forward to meeting the people in these countries and getting to know them as much as I can," young Brooks said. "I'm especially looking forward to the days we will spend in Moscow and Leningrad."

A senior next year, he has been a student at Princeton High School throughout his high school career. He is co-captain of the track team.

GOING BACK in Town Topics

FIVE YEARS AGO

TOWN TOPICS, June 26, 1958: Princetonians were still numb with shock and horror at the automobile accident which, two weeks previously, had killed four young members of the community. The one-car accident, which took place on Route 27 just north of Kingston, had brought almost instantaneous death to the four passengers in a car driven by Robert De Sandre, 18.

De Sandre escaped with comparatively minor injuries — except, as TOWN TOPICS said, for "the mental anguish he must suffer." The accident was (and, in 1963, still is) the "worst ever" in the Princeton area.

Said State Police Sgt. John A. Smith, who investigated the crash and had broken the news to the victims' families: "The horrible details should be compulsory reading for every teenager in the State. I have never seen nor heard of any other accident that illustrates so graphically what can happen at high speed." His statement still stands.

The University Players' season was about to open in Murray Theater with the production of Arthur Miller's "A View from the Bridge." It was chosen, according to the producers, to inaugurate a season of plays "designed to provide theatergoers with something a little more muscular than the usual summer theater exercises." TOWN TOPICS' reviewer found "plenty of muscle in the . . . Murray Theater presentation."

Among changes in the June 1958 Princeton business profile were: The U-Store was becoming the "You-Store" as it prepared to move from its 39-year location in West College to its new building on University place and to switch to a largely self-service sales operation . . . The Opinion Research Corporation was shifting the base for its surveys, samples and slide-rules from Nassau Street to its new headquarters in Research Park, adjacent to the Princeton Shopping Center.

The announcement was made that "an early-American coffee house" would open in September — the "King's Court", no less . . . Anthony J. Nini had just purchased the Chrysler-DeSoto-Plymouth agency on Witherspoon Street. The DeSoto is no more, but Nini Motors is very much in business selling Chryslers, Plymouths and Valiants in Princeton's automotive Arcady on Route 206.

TEN YEARS AGO

TOWN TOPICS, June 25, 1953: Word was out that the boom, bang and blaze of fireworks on July 4 in Palmer Stadium would not take place in 1953. The stadium was getting a resurfacing treatment and was therefore not available. Happily, the program sponsored by Princeton Post 76, American Legion, was resumed the next year and will take place in 1963, same date, same location.

Princeton's most noted resident in 1953, Dr. Albert Einstein, had just told a New York school teacher that "every intellectual called before a congressional committee should refuse to testify."

The term "intellectual" was, as usual, undefined. Not so the reaction of many Congressmen, who found the suggestion "an insult." The famous physicist was discovering that his equation to describe the theory of relativity, $E = MC^2$, could also mean Explosion (Misled scientist) (Congress) 2

Unsticky Wicket Dep't: Princeton's Cricket Team (every few years someone fields a team here, usually an 11 made up of 2 3 British grad students, 1 3 towspeople with both the know-how and the necessary white flannels, plus the inevitable stray pooch who comes to roam the infield) had just closed out a season of two wins, seven losses.

According to team captain Peter Fensham (pron. "Fanshaw"), "a soft pitch helped the visiting bowlers in most of the matches played whilst the Princeton team had trouble in their defence of the wicket, from which the balls were sent repeatedly flying."

In other words, chaps, the infield was usually so soft that visiting pitchers could forget about in-the-park homers and go for strikeouts.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

TOWN TOPICS, June 24, 1948: New 30-day resident of Mercer County Workhouse was a Cleveland man who had been visiting friends in Princeton earlier in the week. His offense: zooming down John Street at more than 60 mph.

In court he freely admitted his guilt and also volunteered the information that he had no driver's permit. When asked by Borough Recorder Paul R. Chesebro to explain the mad dash, the defendant obliged: "Judge, I just wanted to try out my new car."

Lake Carnegie was busier than Little Egg Harbor on a three-day, halibut-sweepstakes weekend. Over 300 oarsmen were competing in 47 races for the honor of representing this country in the coming Olympics. The University of California crew won the finals over what was then called "the best rowing course in the U.S."

Compared with arid 1963, May and June 1948 had produced almost enough rain to float Nassau Hall — 12 inches in six weeks was the count, double the normal. Similar period in 1963 shows less than three inches — 2.54 if you want the count to the last drop.

MAKE MINE STRAWBERRY: The distance between a plate of strawberry shortcake and the open mouth increase in direct proportion to the age and height of the consumer, which makes four years old just about right. Fred Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lewis of Rocky Hill, managed to get close enough to his plate at the Rocky Hill Reformed Church Strawberry Festival to establish direct contact about 90 percent of the time. Misunderstanding Christ on the Lord's Supper

The Lord's Supper is at the very heart of Christian worship. It was instituted by Jesus Christ himself the night before his death (Matthew 26:26-28).

In New Testament times, the central purpose of the Lord's Day assembly was to observe the Lord's Supper. It was never thought of as a "church tradition" or ritual, but as an act of faith of tremendous spiritual significance. It was observed steadfastly on each first day of the week (Acts 2:42; 20:7).

Yet today many look at the Lord's Supper principally as a church custom. They see only a tray of bread and small glasses of grape juice. They do not comprehend its importance to their own lives.

Such a view reflects a lack of teaching and discernment on the subject. Just as many miss the inner meaning of Jesus' teachings on baptism and church membership, others have never come to a full knowledge of the truth on Jesus' teaching on the Lord's Supper. Such misunderstandings constitute "crushing pearls" – a description given by Christ to those incapable of discerning certain spiritual truths.

The Lord's Supper is a memorial feast that is designed to bring the Christian worshipper closer to the Lord, not only on the day it is observed, but throughout the week.

There are three spiritual dimensions to this act of Christian worship – all of which must be understood and discerned if the act is to be engaged in meaningfully, scripturally, and acceptably.

The Christian looks backward to the cross. We must be mindful that remission of our sins was made possible through the death and shed blood of Jesus on the cross. Looking backward to the cross and its significance to our salvation is essential. It was Jesus who said that the act was to be done "in remembrance" of him.

The Christian should look inward to his own spiritual needs. To the Christians at Corinth, Paul wrote: "But let a man prove himself, and so let him eat of the bread, and drink of the cup. For he that eateth and drinketh, eateth and drinketh judgment (damnation) unto himself, if he discern not the body" (1 Corinthians 11:28). Observance of the Lord's Supper brings to our mind our own sinfulness and need for the perpetual cleansing made possible by the blood of Christ (1 John 1:7).

The Christian looks forward to the Lord's return. The Lord's Supper preaches Christ's death. It preaches the New Covenant (Hebrews 9:15-22), and it also preaches his second coming: "For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink the cup, ye proclaim the Lord's death till he come" (1 Corinthians 11:26). Each time the Christian observes the Lord's Supper he is reminded that Christ will return someday to earth and call his disciples to a better world. This act of faith, reminding the Christian of Christ's return, is intended to inspire him to a more sober, more prayerful, more godly, more watchful life from day to day.

Yes, the Lord's Supper is a tremendously vital act of faith to the Christian worshipper. The scriptural observance of this act of worship can have a dynamic effect on our fidelity and devotion to Christ, in whose honor it is observed.

DR. STEWART TO RETIRE

42 Years on Faculty. Dr. John Q Stewart, 200 Mercer Street, will retire at the end of this month after 42 years as a member of the University's department of astrophysical sciences. He plans to continue research in social physics, the application of scientific principles to human affairs.

He explains social physics as describing the basic concepts of the physical sciences and identifying those capable of transfer to the social sciences. Dr. Stewart says, "The most general analogies between the two center around the concept of energy." Four principal kinds of social energy have been identified; thinking, feeling, doing and conforming.

Dr. Stewart's publications have covered a variety of fields: social physics, magnetism, acoustics, opacity of gases, stellar almospheres, space flight, sunspots, lunar features, hurricanes, marine and air navigation, demography and related economic indices. He is an authority on eclipses.

A member of the University's class of 1915, Dr. Stewart earned his doctorate in physics from Princeton in 1919, following service in World War I. He organized the American expedition to observe the longest solar eclipse in modern times in 1937, and in 1945 directed over 200 scientists and laymen in the observation of another total eclipse.

According to the police, the burglar entered the Caldwell home by way of an unlocked back door. Once inside, he took a wallet from the dresser of one bedroom and two pocketbooks from another bedroom belonging to four overnight guests of Mrs. Caldwell. No one reported hearing anything, police said.

The empty wallet and pocketbooks were found the next day downstairs. About $150 had been taken.

The empty wallet and pocketbooks were found the next day downstairs. About $150 had been taken.

Mrs. Briggs reported that about $50 had been taken from her purse the same evening. She told police that she left her pocketbook by her bed about eight in the evening, prior to attending a wedding. The next day she reported finding her pocketbook in the hallway, some distance from her bedroom. She had left the house unlocked, police said.

THREE AT BOYS' STATE

In New Brunswick. Three Princeton boys are currently attending the 18th session of the Ameriacn Legion-sponsored Boys' State at Rutgers University where 850 of the most outstanding high school boys throughout the state meet to learn the operation of government.

John Rajchman, 268 Edgerstoune Road; Peter Sly, 74 Marion Road East; and Richard Vomacka of 8 Evelyn Place were selected as delegates by American Legion Post 76 for this year's program. The program instructs the delegates in operation of government by having them govern fictitious cities, counties and a state.

The highlight of the week-long program is the election of a boy "governor" who is later invited to attend a Boys' Nation in Washington, D.C., where a similar program is held on a national scale. Prominent educators and politicians will be present to instruct the boys in the principles of governing.

AWARDS PRESENTED

At Cub Scout Picnic. Cub Scout Pack 56, sponsored by St. Paul's Catholic Church, closed this year's activities with its annual picinc at Marquand Park.

Cubmaster Edward Holcombe presented awards to the following boys: Bobcat pins to Dominic Norgare, Keith Hol-

School, afternoon; Tuesday, Valley Road, morning, and Grover Avenue, afternoon; Wednesday, Harrison Park, morning, and Pine Street and John Street, alternate afternoons.

Also, Thursday, Littlebrook, morning, and Jugtown, afternoon; and Friday, Marquand, morning, and Johnson Park, afternoon.

TEENS PLAN FOR SUMMER

Guided by YW Group. A steering committee of 20 young people is planning a Tiger Town Teens' activities program to off-set the summer doldrums. The group is meeting with Mrs. William Humes of the YWCA Y-Teen staff and William Horner of the YMCA staff.

The Teens' open houses this spring attracted attendances ranging from 165 to 300. A Y membership is not required.

Behind the group is the YWCA Y-TEEN Committee, led by Mrs. James C. McKeever. Organization of Y-Teen clubs at Princeton High School is planned for this fall, and the committee is seeking volunteers to serve as club advisors.

This year a camp committee was formed with Mrs. George Warfield a Y-Teen and YWCA board member as chairman. It supervised a weekly camp aid, or counselor training program.

The Y-Teen Committee estimates that 1,184 young people took part in Y-Teen programs during the past 12 months. Classes were attended by 375; day camp—108; club members—125; 7th and 8th grade dances—250; Y-Teen Committee—12, and 14 served as advisors and instructors. The committee also sponsored the recent banquet attended by 65 mothers and daughters. Santa Claus had luncheon with 106 mothers and children during the Christmas season.

TOWN TOPICS reaches every home in the Princeton area. By their own figures, no other Princeton newspaper does half as well.

BUSINESS In Princeton

DOW JONES PLANS MOVE To Nearby Area. Two buildings are to be built by Dow Jones and Company, Inc., in South Brunswick Township and ready for occupancy no later than early summer of next year. They will house Dow Jones business departments and an expanded research and development division in the fields of the graphic arts and communications.

Dow Jones, whose president is Princeton resident Bernard Kilgore, of Pretty Brook Road, publishes The Wall Street Journal, The National Observer, Barron's Business and Financial Weekly, and operates the Dow Jones news service throughout this country and Canada.

To be located on a 107-acre tract on Route One about two miles east of Penns Neck, the new buildings will be occupied by about 250 employees. One building will house the company's circulation sales department, accounting department, and engineering and manufacturing facilities for producing specialized equipment.

The second building will be used by the Dow Jones research and planning division as a laboratory for exploring new and better ways of producing and distributing its publications.

Architect John Graham and Company designed both buildings. Plans for the two-story, air-conditioned office structure include a recessed, heat-absorbent glass curtain-wall in a precast concrete frame and two-story precast concrete columns which will also provide partial sun control.

In addition to its publications and news service, Dow Jones produces, under its own patents, the telegraph printer (or "ticker") used by the news service, automatic mailing machines, high speed circulation servicing equipment and other specialized machinery. Its engineers developed and built the electro-typesetter system of electronic typesetting which makes production and delivery of The Wall Street Journal possible throughout the country, using eight regional printing plants.

In early 1962, The Wall Street Journal produced its Pacific Coast edition in its Riverside Calif., plant by a method which includes the use of facsimile-microwave transmission from San Francisco. This was the first facsimile newspaper to be regularly and commercially printed in this country.

DOES THE SUN SHINE? Electronic Switch Tells. Two Princeton business firms, Carter-Princeton and Science Associates, have developed an electronic sun switch for St. Petersburg, Fla., which claims the title "Sun Capital of the U.S."

The photoelectric switch is located on top of The Times and Evening Independent Building with a recorder and duration totalizer in the Independent's newsroom. An indicator transcribes on narrow tape, minute by minute, whether or not the sun is shining, and the day's sunshine down to minutes is published by the Independent each day.

All copies of the Independent are given free if the sun does not shine on the building from noon of one day to noon of the next. When the Times purchased the Independent about a year ago, it decided to buy new apparatus.

The sunshine sensor was developed ten years ago, and most Class A weather stations use these switches connected to a standard digital indicating system. When Science Associates was asked by the Independent for such a set-up, the firm requested Carl L. Sonnenschein, general manager of Carter-Princeton, to develop new circuitry for use with the Weather Bureau's sensor.

The unit was installed in March, and the Independent began reporting the number of minutes of sunshine on its front page on April 22. The recorder is the first of its design anywhere.

Science Associates specializes in meteorological instruments, and sells a wide range of weather instruments to universities, public utilities, industrial laboratories, Weather Bureaus, the Federal Aviation Agency and others. It operates from 194 Nassau Street.

Carter-Princeton designs and manufactures control and sensing circuitry. It specializes in cooling, heating and controlling temperatures through the use of thermo-electricity which requires no moving parts. The firm is located 178 Alexander Street.

BOOKKEEPING MOVED By First National Bank. The commercial bookkeeping department of the First National Bank is now located at the East Nassau Street branch, 370 Nassau. The move was prompted by lack of space for additional electronic equipment and personnel at the main office, 90 Nassau Street.

The new quarters provide offices for supervisors and have been furnished with an acoustical ceiling, wall panelling and tile flooring. There is space for future expansion of the department.

The bank invites its friends and customers to inspect the department and the modern procedure for check processing and maintenance of checking accounts.

"CENTREX" COMING To Western Electric. "Centrex," the Bell Telephone Company's direct line service, will be in operation at Western Electric's engineering research center in Hopewell Township on July 8. It is the first such installation in this area and the sixth in the state.

The Centrex system was devised in May of last year to replace the standard dial switchboard. The caller will dial 639 and the four-digit extension number; if he does not know the extension, he will dial Western Electric's new number 639-1231 and ask the Centrex attendant for the extension.

The system will allow those at Western Electric to dial outside numbers directly and will provide 24-hour intercommunication on all telephones. There are 300 telephones at Western Electric.

TURNER RE-ELECTED Estate Planning Treasurer. Gilbert C. Turner, vice-president and trust officer of the First National Bank, has been re-elected treasurer of the Mercer County Estate Planning Council.

Other staff members from First National who attended the June meeting, devoted to "The Lawyers' Viewpoint of Team Planning", were Mrs. Elizabeth Van Seiver, trust officer, and Robert Kersting, administrative assistant in the trust department.

J. Seymour Montgomery discussed "Post-Mortem Planning" at the session.

FORMS COMING IN From State Businessmen. Personal property information forms, mailed to all New Jersey businesses last week, are coming in to the Local Property Tax Bureau in Trenton at the rate of 1000 a day. The deadline for filing these returns is August 1.

Forms are available from local assessors, county boards of taxation, or from the Bureau, Statistical Section, Box 1998, Trenton 25. Businessmen who did not receive a form in the mail are required to obtain one and return it to the Bureau.

The form has been simplified from previous years, and most businesses can find the information easily from their 1962 federal income tax rec-

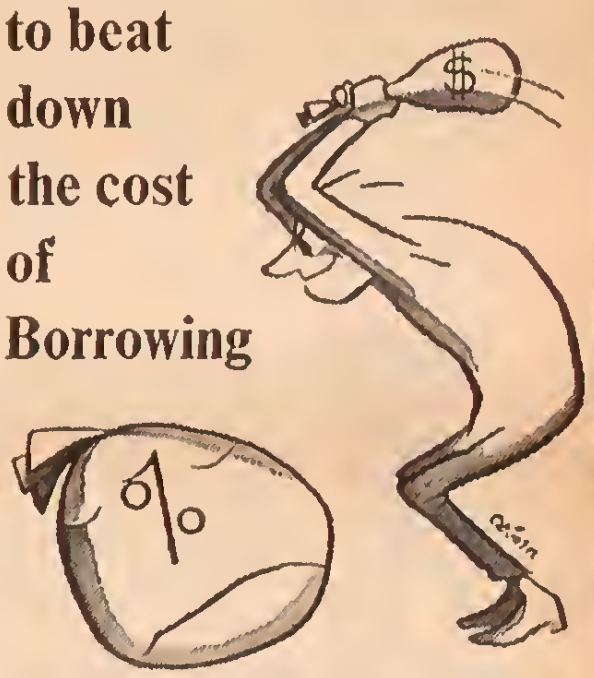
How to use your Savings to beat down the cost of Borrowing



Put your savings in a Full Service commercial bank. Borrow money from that same bank. You'll make the most of your money because you'll pay the least for your loan.

The more you do for a Full Service commercial bank (such as ours), the more we can do for you.

What can you do for us?
Bring us your checking account, your savings account, and any other accounts you may have. And do all your borrowing from us.

In return, what can we do for you?
Chances are we can save you money on loans. Our interest rates for loans are usually lower than the rates at other types of financial institutions.

But what about our lower interest rate on savings?
True, we sometimes pay a little less on savings than other types of financial institutions. But if you're like most people, you'll borrow far more in your lifetime than you'll save. It figures that having to pay even a slightly higher rate on a loan will quickly wipe out any small gain you might make on your savings.

How do we get together?
Very simple. Just let one of our bank officers show you how we can become your financial headquarters. The rest comes easy.

BACKHAND BLAST BY THE NCAA CHAMPION-TO-BE: In the semi-finals of the NCAA tennis tournament here last week, Dennis Ralston of USC (right) met Arthur Ashe of UCLA. The brilliant contest, called by one "The Greater Los Angeles Cup Match," has rarely, if ever, been surpassed in this tournament in the quality of play. Both contestants produced probably the greatest tennis of their careers as Ralston finally won, 6-2, 8-6, 5-7, 3-6, 6-1. In the understandably anticlimatic finals, Ralston defeated Martin Riessen of Northwestern. (Staff Photo)

USC SWEEPS TENNIS

Wins All Three Titles. A clean sweep of the singles, doubles and team championship was recorded by the University of Southern California in the National Collegiate Tennis Tournament held here last week. Princeton did well against the nation's top players, its seven-point total earning a tie for sixth place with Michigan, Michigan State and Stanford in the 37-team field.

Dennis Ralston was the chief architect of USC's victory as he won the singles title Saturday morning and then teamed with Rafael Osuna to take the doubles. To complete Southern Cal's domination of the tournament, all four players in the doubles came from the tennis stronghold.

Ralston recorded a four-set triumph in the singles over Martin Riessen of Northwestern, the Big Ten champion. The score was 9-7, 2-6, 6-2, 6-1.

The victor's strong service and fine ability to lob were his best weapons. Ralston's first serve continually found the mark, and when his opponent frequently had to rely on his second, the USC player occasionally put it away for a quick point.

Riessen dominated the second set to draw even, taking advantage of errors on Ralston's part. The latter then regained complete control and ran out the final two sets with the loss of only three games.

Ralston and Osuna, who won the Wimbledon title three years ago, had matters under control in the five-set doubles final Saturday afternoon. After winning the first set, 9-7, and dropping the next two, 4-6 and 7-9, they turned on the power against teammates Bill Bond and Ramsey Earnhart to take 6-3 and 6-1 decisions.

As a result of its ability to enter five out of a possible six players in the finals, USC compiled a total of 27 points, eight more than runner-up UCLA. Northwestern followed with 17, Miami, 14, and Arizona 8, all ahead of the four-way tie for sixth in which Princeton was involved.

Herb Fitzgibbon, the Tigers' no. 1 player, reached the third round of the singles before he was eliminated. He teamed with George Howell in the doubles and they went all the way to the quarter-finals before losing to a pair from Miami University.

Near - perfect weather marked the six days of virtually continuous play, with only an afternoon or two of high humidity and no rain to interrupt matters. The tournament was staged here for the first time and was the first held east of the Mississippi since 1958.

TIGERS PEGGED AT .600

Three Titles Won in '62-'63. A winning percentage of .600 was compiled by Princeton athletic teams for 1962-63, according to figures released this week. The combined varsity performance felled by four percentage points (.004) to match the statistics for the preceding 12 months.

Freshman teams, representing the Class of 1966, topped their predecessors' average by six percentage points. The figure for the year just ended was .684, compared to .678.

Three Ivy League championships were won during the year, John Couroy and Ferris Thomsen providing repeat performances in tennis and lacrosse. Thomsen's was his seventh in a row, and his teams have now played 36 consecutive Ivy games without a defeat.

The other Ivy championship was in basketball, Coach Bill Van Breda Kolff winning the title for the Tigers in his first year at Princeton. Victory was achieved in a playoff game with Yale in the Fordham University gymnasium.

Four Teams Under .500. Four varsity teams failed to reach the break-even point as the Tigers scored 117 victories against 78 defeats. Deficits were posted by crew (2-3) and wrestling (4-5), with soccer a shade further down at 4-6 and hockey at the bottom after a 6-17 season. Top performance was credited to the tennis team, unbeaten in 11 matches, with basketball (19-6) and squash (9-2) also far up the ladder.

Two Princeton area athletes were among the half-dozen named to All-Ivy teams. Johnny Cook of Kingston was selected for the third straight year in hockey, while Webb Harrison of Battle Road made it in lacrosse after having been named all-Ivy in soccer as a sophomore.

Cook broke the Princeton scoring record in hockey with a career total of 132 points, while Bill Bradley gave the Tigers new basketball marks for a single game and season. His respective totals were 40 and 682.

ALL-STAR GAME SET

In Junior Baseball. An all-star game between teams composed of players from all four entries in the YMCA Junior Baseball League will be held July 4 at 1:30 at the Princeton High School field. L. C. Bowers and Princeton Water Company will oppose Matthews Construction Company and Nassau Oil.

League play will start this week. Bowers, the defending champions, will seek to retain its title against a strong Nassau Oil contender.

Harvard Tough for Tigers

Princeton teams won more than half their contests with every Ivy League rival save Harvard, figures compiled for the year just ended reveal. The Tigers were victorious in only eight of 18 meetings with the Crimson.

They barely topped the .500 mark with Yale, the 6-5 triumph in the reunion baseball game earlier this month giving them the odd victory in 21 contests for an 11-10 record against the Blue. Princeton's greatest success against any Ivy foe was achieved against Brown, from which it won nine times while losing twice.

Other results: 10-4 against Columbia, 11-5 against Penn, 9-3 against Dartmouth and 8-6 against Cornell. Princeton won better than three of every five Ivy contests during the year for an overall percentage of 622.

EMR, RCA BOTH SPLIT

In Business Softball. RCA and Electro-Mechanical Research split a pair of contests last week in the Business Softball League.

RCA edged EMR, 6-5, but was upended, 15 to 4, by Accelerator. EMR atoned for its one-run defeat at the hands of RCA by posting a one-run, 7-6, victory over Scientific Electronics. Despite its .500 average for the week, EMR clung to first place, a half-game ahead of Columbian Carbon, while RCA remained in third place.

Jim Clark's homer provided the margin in RCA's triumph over EMR. This offset a fine four-for-four effort by Ron Infante of EMR.

Paul Crea was tagged with the defeat, Art Hahn picking up the win. Against Accelerator, Hahn was the loser as Jack Barlow connected for three safeties in three tries to pace the winners' 15-run attack. Clark had three hits for RCA.

Crea and Dick Civelli, three-for-four, combined to lead EMR to its victory over Scientific Electronics. Joe Toto's homer and Joe Castora's two doubles and a single were not enough to prevent Scientific Electronics from losing another close one. Mike Lisi picked up the defeat.

Columbian Carbon kept pace by scoring 24 runs against Princeton Hospital which tallied 11 of its own in a loosely-played game. Pitcher Don Waltz coasted to his third victory in four starts behind solid hitting that included Hank Knester's four singles singles and a double. Jim Weidenhafer produced the game's only four-bagger.

Arthur C. Bruckmann, 2 W Broad Street, Hopewell: I think the Court is wrong. I can't see where nine men should be able to decide this for all the people I think they should have put it on the basis of a national referendum. If they had, I'll bet 90 percent of the people would have said keep it in the schools. What harm is it doing? Nothing. It does not bring state or religion together, in my estimation. It doesn't bring the government into it, either. As far as the kids are concerned, they don't understand what it is all about. I think it is silly to take it out of the schools because of a couple of aethists who fought it in the courts. If they didn't want to listen, they didn't have to. Nobody was forcing them to listen. It's just like a TV program. If you don't like it, you can leave the room. That's the trouble: there are too many butinskys in this country. I feel they have made a big mistake.

Mrs. Robert Torquist, Skillman, housewife: I don't agree with the Court. The Bible has always been a part of our American way of life. I feel it is necessary for our daily living and for our moral values. I can see no harm in reading it in the public schools.

Mrs. John Bell, Jr., Chattanooga (former Princeton resident) housewife: I think they should have prayers in the school. There are a lot of children who would never get any prayer experience or exposure to the Bible except from the school. I feel they should get some religious training. I know there are just oodles of people who never go to church and a child has to get his religious training when he is young. I don't care what religion it is, just as long as he gets something.

Mrs. George Drummond, Titus-Mill Road, Pennington, secretary: Basically, I think religion should be taught at the home but I don't think reading the Bible in school will hurt anyone. If they want to participate, they can; if they don't, they don't have to. Nobody is forcing them. I don't think it hurts anyone to bow his head.

Anderson Wins Golf Title

Bill Anderson of Raritan Valley is the 1963 state amateur golf champion and there's not much doubt about it. After winning his semi-final round at the Essex Fells County Club, 8 and 7, he took the 36-hole final, 10 and 9.

Anderson, who is advertising manager of the Princeton Shopping Center News, defeated Tony Aldarelli of Asbury Park in the championship final. He was three up after the first 18 and then proceeded to win seven of the next eight to wrap up the match on the 27th green.

MIDSUMMER'S EVE: Gordon Griffin plays the harmonica and Kai H. Soderman the guitar as members of All Saints' Chapel, Trinity Parish, sing all the old favorites and pass the watermelon at the close of the Midsummer's Eve choral service and picnic on Sunday.

News Of The CHURCHES

HEBREWBUILDING DEBATED By Trinity Parish. On his first day at Trinity Parish, a young curate fresh from the seminary heard a $750,000 proposal touch off the congregation's hottest debate of the year.

The Rev. Robert W. Merchant got his first look at the members in action at a meeting held last week to examine plans for reconstructing Trinity Church. The building was devastated in an all-day fire on February 8.

In sum, the plans call for $650,000 to cover new construction, alterations and furnishings as well as some alteration in the parish house, Pierce Hall. An additional $100,000 is tacked on to cover the balance due on All Saints' Chapel, Snowden Lane, where the new curate will serve.

The architectural plan, presented by Frederick K. Woodbridge of Adams & Woodbridge, New York, would rebuild the church towards Stockton Street, incorporating the nave of the present building. It would be wider, there would be three aisles leading to the altar, and the altar itself would be closer to the congregation.

If every Episcopalian took up 20 inches of space in the pews, an estimated 400 could be seated, plus 48 in each of the short arms of the transcept. An additional 66 could be seated in the balcony proposed at the rear of the church.

Funds on hand, according to John H. Wallace, who will head the drive, include $192,000 insurance damages and about $10,000 in gifts received since the fire.

Long-Range Needs Stressed. Emphasis was placed by the Rev. Dr. Robert R. Spears, Jr., rector, and Warden Hugh D. Wise on the need for long-range planning as to parish needs. The Rev. Charles G. Newbery, vicar of All Saints, also spoke in support.

Criticisms brought out by some of the 220 parishioners present included strong comments as to the inadvisability of enlarging Trinity at the present time. Prof. Clayton M. Hall reminded the vestry that All Saints Chapel was planned to siphon off the pressure on Trinity.

Others commented that there is a growing need for the establishment of parochial chapels to serve the Lawrenceville area and the Hightstown-Cranbury area. Some felt that the church should be repaired exactly as it was. Some parishioners later questioned the wisdom of spending three quarters of a million dollars purely on Trinity in view of world wide church needs.

For every argument spirited responses came from parishioners who endorsed the plan. The vestry and clergy. The Rev. Dr. Spears pointed out that Trinity is the only Episcopalian parish between Trenton and New Brunswick, Freehold and the Delaware River, with the exception of Rocky Hill and the Sand Hills. The growth potential of the area is tremendous, he said, and Trinity must prepare for the future.

He added that when All Saints' was planned there was not economic possibility of rebuilding Trinity. "The fire has changed our thinking," he said.

"False Economy" Charged. Mr. Wallace said the rector estimated that about $300,000 will cover the cost of rebuilding the church as it was. "I do not think this is the kind of solution which looks forward," Dr. Spears said. "False economy," Mr. Wallace termed it.

A committee representing the 155 communicants from Lawrenceville studied for eight months the possibility of building a chapel similar to All Saints'. "The area is not ready — even with diocesan help," Dr. Spears reported. He said that a tremendous population increase is due there, then the area should have its own church.

The plans, formulated largely through the vestry's Reconstruction Committee, were reviewed by the Parish Advisory Committee prior to the general parish meeting. In all, some 400 - 500 members have viewed the plans, Mr. Spears said later.

The meeting, which closed abruptly as the hour grew late, reconvened informally. Devout young members entered a strong plea that the parish show some kind of Christian witness that it is willing to share its resources.

Ultimate decision as to the reconstruction program lies in the hands of the elected vestrymen. They met on Monday following the session and were unavailable for comment.

As for the new curate, the Rev. Mr. Marchant has found himself in a lively parish, which, he said at the Midsummer Night's Festival, is a good thing.

OFFICERS ELECTED By Church Groups. The annual changing of the guard has taken place in area church organizations.

The Princeton Church Youth Council has elected Edward Goetz as president for the coming year. Also named are Alan Bernhardt, vice-president, Kitty Hullit, secretary; Jim Jones, treasurer; Gail Blatteaberger, UNICEF chairman, and the Rev. Francis Huntington of Trinity Episcopal Parish, advisor.

The inter-church group is meeting to discuss plans for summer recreation and volunteer work. Mrs. Raymond Male is serving as advisor to the UNICEF committee.

Dr. D. Campbell Wyckoff, professor of Christian education at Princeton Seminary has been named president of the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church Men's Breakfast. He succeeds Lee Wiley. Chase Porter is vice-president and Ray Arrowsmith, secretary-treasurer.

At Hopewell Calvary Baptist Church, Russell Riley is the new president of the Men's Fellowship. Also named are William Dorenus, vice-president; Marvin Vandewater, secretary; Fred Blackwell, treasurer; Hugh White, chairman of growth and Elston Hunt, fellowship chairman.

Trustees elected at the Fourth Quarterly Conference at Princeton Methodist Church are Harvey Hook and Thomas Robbins, 1964. Winfield Niles and J. Guy Woodward, 1965, B. Woodhull Davis and Donald Rugg, 1966.

Stewards to serve for a one-year term are Harold Davis, Henry Johnson, John Johnson and Mrs. Chester Stronp; two year terms: Lewis Bain, E. Reeves Black, Edward McCall, Irving Ness and Mrs. Donald Rugg; three-year terms: Paul Ashton, Alfred Bowers, Kern Chang, Edward Norton and Walter Williams. Honorary stewards are D. Mershon Green, Everett Satterthwait and Vincent Gregg.

TO BREAK GROUND At Penns Neck Church. The Rev. Walter P. Carvin will conduct ground-breaking ceremonies this Sunday for the $60,000 Christian education facilities adjacent to Princeton Baptist Church, Penns Neck.

Cyril Davison, chairman of the building committee, will spade the first shovelful of earth in the presence of the congregation and choir. Joseph Heartberg, executive secretary of the New Jersey Baptist Convention, will speak. The building is expected to be completed by December.

BULLETIN NOTES Attending Conference. The Rev. Kenneth S. Dannenhauer, of Calvary Baptist Church, Walnut Lane, is attending the conference of college town pastors of the American Baptist Convention in Green Lake, Wis.

Young People. A supper program is planned for 6:30 this Sunday for the Young Adult Fellowships of Dutch Neck Presbyterian and Plainsboro Presbyterian Churches. The post-high school groups will meet at the home of the Rev. James S. Weaver, Dutch Neck.

A LIVING & GROWING INVESTMENT. The living part of this property is a genuinely charming old 5 bdrm. home, with fine original detail, plus tenant house & barn, all in A-1 condition. The growing (already begun) should be fabulous in this pleasant Hopewell Twp. area, a scenic part of our future—ugh.—"megalopolis." 75 acres, road frontage galore, zoning, location, fields, woods, contours, all add up to a superb long-term investment picture. Meanwhile the living for a country loving family should be wonderful.

Get away from it all in a LOG CABIN IN THE WOODS, not miles out, as you might think, but almost in the heart of Princeton! Actually, it's fancier than it sounds: A large liv. rm. with cathedral ceiling and huge stone fireplace, attractive paneling made from trees on the place, usable kitchen, smallish din. rm., 2 bdrms. and a real bathroom. Set in 4 treeful acres, the property could be irresistable to wood lovers! $37,500 (less with less land)

WITH A SLIGHTLY ELEGANT AIR but still warm and welcoming, this West End Colonial has interior and exterior appeal. A large liv. rm. opens onto a dreamy terrace, enhanced by a landscaper's inspiration: wisteria overhead to let winter sun in and vice-versa. The bdrms. (3 or 4) are nice, specially the master suite. The kitchen, with eating area, is one any cook would love to work in; though the equipment is not 1963, the charm and workability are timeless. Piece de resistance: bewitching studio overlooking enchanting garden. $67,500

. . . a symbol of faith in the future—the faith without which there is no future . . .

An exciting new concept. Rare living evergreen Chamaecyparis Tree, grown by famous Flower Show Farm in Bucks County, Pennsylvania.

Soft as kitten fur, bluer than the bluest blue spruce. Beautiful luminous quality at dusk. Will grow to 10 ft. outdoors. So hardy it needs no winter protection, yet can be kept as a house plant.

Individually boxed and accompanied by inspiring message of faith—makes wonderful gift.

$5.00 Postpaid
(with written unconditional guarantee.)

You're invited: a visit to Flower Show Farm can make a wonderful day for any amateur gardener seeking rare and hard-to-find plants. Outdoor gardens, greenhouses, lathhouses and a most unusual indoor garden right in the hay loft of the old barn. Open every day including Sunday. Special arrangements can be made for garden clubs or other groups.
